Grievance Committee for the Second,
Eleventh & Thirteenth Judicial Districts
Renaissance Plaza
335 Adams Street, Suite 2400
Brooklyn, New York 11201
ad2-grv2@nycourts.gov

Re: Grievance Complaint Regarding Attorney Michael Palkhiwala, State Bar No. 4136750

To the Grievance Committee,

We write to complain about the misconduct committed by Michael Palkhiwala[1] in prosecuting People v. Anderson.[2] In its published opinion, the Appellate Division found Palkhiwala to have made inflammatory remarks, denigrated the defense, and commented on Anderson's pre-arrest silence.[3] Though the court reversed the conviction on a different ground—an unlawful search by police—it addressed Palkhiwala's misconduct and noted its disapproval.[4]

Palkhiwala is now in private practice and advertises his prosecutorial experience to potential clients online: "As a former prosecutor and Deputy Bureau Chief for the Kings County District Attorney's Office, Mike successfully handled and supervised thousands of prosecutions and earned convictions in numerous violent felony trials."[5] Despite the judicial finding of misconduct in Anderson, as of the writing of this grievance, the New York Attorney Detail Report lists "Disciplinary History: No record of public discipline" for Palkhiwala.[6]

The Grievance Committee must consider serious disciplinary action against Palkhiwala, including the possibility of suspending his license to practice law.

---

[1] Michael Patrick Palkhiwala, State Bar No. 4136750, Velella & Basso, 1937 Williamsbridge Road, Bronx, New York, 10461. Phone: (718) 931-1220. Email: mpalkhiwala@bassolawny.com. These writers do not have personal knowledge of any of the facts or circumstances of the named prosecutor or the case mentioned; this grievance is based entirely on the court opinions, briefs, and other documents cited herein.

[2] Exhibit A, People v Anderson, 142 AD3d 713 (2d Dept 2016).

[3] Id. at 716.

[4] Id.

[5] Velella & Basso, Michael P. Palkhiwala, Of Counsel, https://tinyurl.com/5rbe7bh7.

[6] New York Unified Court System, Attorney Online Services – Search, https://tinyurl.com/347srhpu [search by attorney Michael Palkhiwala, click on Name hyperlink].

1. The Grievance Committee has a Unique Duty to Protect the Public by Holding Prosecutors Accountable for Misconduct.

A. Prosecutorial Misconduct is Pervasive and Unchecked.

Our legal system holds prosecutors to the highest standards of all attorneys.[7] When any attorney errs, it can cause harm, typically to an individual person. But a prosecutor's misconduct can not only destroy a person's life, and that of their family, but also derail the legal system's promises of fairness and equality for all. When state actors harness the punitive power of the state in a manner that violates the state's own rules, it sends the message that power—not justice—is the driving force behind legal actions. A single prosecutor's misconduct can damage "the reputation and public confidence placed" in all prosecutors and the justice system itself.[8]

As the United States Supreme Court and the New York Court of Appeals have stated, a prosecutor "may strike hard blows, [but] he is not at liberty to strike foul ones. It is as much his duty to refrain from improper methods calculated to produce a wrongful conviction as it is to use every legitimate means to bring about a just one."[9] Hal Lieberman, former Chief Counsel for the Departmental Disciplinary Committee in New York's First Department, has noted how unchecked prosecutorial misconduct "undermines the integrity of the entire system."[10]

But misconduct by prosecutors remains widespread and unchecked in the New York criminal legal system. A 2013 study of ten years of state and federal decisions revealed more than two dozen instances in which judges reversed convictions explicitly because of prosecutorial misconduct.[11] Yet these appellate courts "did not routinely refer prosecutors for investigation by the state disciplinary committees," and the disciplinary committees otherwise "almost never took serious action against prosecutors."[12] Indeed, among these numerous cases in which judges overturned convictions based on prosecutorial misconduct, only one prosecutor was publicly [7] Matter of Rain, 162 AD3d 1458, 1462 (3d Dept 2018) ("[P]rosecutors carry an obligation to hold themselves to the highest standards based upon their role in our system of justice."); see also ABA Criminal Justice Standards: Prosecution Function Standard 3-1.4(a) ("In light of the prosecutor's public responsibilities, broad authority and discretion, the prosecutor has a heightened duty of candor to the courts and in fulfilling other professional obligations.").

---

[8] Rain, 162 AD3d at 1462.

[9] Berger v United States, 295 US 78, 88 (1935) (emphasis added); see also People v Jones, 44 NY2d 76, 80 (1978) (quoting Berger, 295 US at 88); People v Calabria, 94 NY2d 519, 523 (2000) ("Evenhanded justice and respect for the fundamentals of a fair trial mandate the presentation of legal evidence unimpaired by intemperate conduct aimed at sidetracking the jury from its ultimate responsibility—determining facts relevant to guilt or innocence."); People v Levan, 295 NY 26, 36 (1945).

[10] Joaquin Sapien & Sergio Hernandez, Who Polices Prosecutors Who Abuse Their Authority? Usually Nobody, ProPublica (Apr. 3, 2013), https://tinyurl.com/t2ryucec.

[11] Id.

[12] Id.

disciplined by a New York disciplinary committee.[13] None of the other implicated prosecutors were disbarred, suspended, or publicly censured and, according to personnel records gathered by ProPublica, several prosecutors were promoted and given raises soon after courts cited them for abuses.[14] As the New York Times Editorial Board wrote in 2018, "there's no reliable system for holding prosecutors accountable for their misconduct, and they certainly can't be entrusted with policing themselves."[15]

B. Summation Misconduct is Pernicious and Widespread.

In closing arguments ("summation"), the prosecutor's task is to explain how evidence introduced at trial applies to the legal elements of the charged offenses. Thus, prosecutors "must stay within the four corners of the evidence"[16] and are not permitted to make arguments that rely on facts that are not in evidence.[17] Prosecutors are not permitted to engage in prejudicial or misleading argument, which is sometimes referred to as a "cardinal sin."[18] These missteps include making "irrelevant and inflammatory comments";[19] expressing "personal belief or opinion as to the truth or falsity of any testimony or evidence,"[20] also known as vouching; appealing to the jurors' sympathies or fears;[21] shifting the burden from the prosecution to the defense;[22] and denigrating the defense, defense counsel or the defendant.[23] Engaging in these forms of arguments is prejudicial and improper and can violate the accused's constitutional right to a fair trial.[24]

As far back as 1899, the New York Court of Appeals cautioned prosecutors against appealing to "prejudice" or seeking conviction "through the aid of passion, sympathy or resentment."[25] In 1906, the Court of Appeals reversed a criminal conviction because of the prosecutor's improper comments to the jury and expressed its frustration with the frequency of such misconduct:

---

[13] Id.; see also In re Stuart, 22 AD3d 131, 133 (2d Dept 2005) (holding, following a Grievance Committee disciplinary proceeding, that a prosecutor's misconduct warranted a three-year suspension from the practice of law).

[14] See Sapien & Hernandez.

[15] Editorial Board, Prosecutors Need a Watchdog, NY Times (Aug. 14, 2018), https://tinyurl.com/4ntvsv85.

[16] People v Mehmood, 112 AD3d 850, 853 (2d Dept 2013) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

[17] People v Ashwal, 39 NY2d 105, 109-110 (1976); see also People v Wright, 25 NY3d 769, 779-780 (2015); People v Singh, 128 AD3d 860, 863 (2d Dept 2015).

[18] See Daniel S. Medwed, Prosecution Complex: America's Race to Convict and Its Impact on the Innocent 103-118 (2012).

[19] Mehmood, 112 AD3d at 853.

[20] People v Bailey, 58 NY2d 272, 277 (1983) (quotation marks omitted).

[21] See, e.g., Ashwal, 39 NY2d at 110; People v Lindo, 85 AD2d 643, 644 (2d Dept 1981); People v Fernandez, 82 AD2d 922, 923 (2d Dept 1981); People v Fogarty, 86 AD2d 617, 617 (2d Dept 1982); People v. Brown, 26 AD3d 392, 393 (2d Dept 2006).

[22] See, e.g., People v DeJesus, 137 AD2d 761, 762 (2d Dept 1988); People v Lothin, 48 AD2d 932, 932 (2d Dept 1975).

[23] See, e.g., People v Damon, 24 NY2d 256, 260 (1969); People v Lombardi, 20 NY2d 266, 272 (1967); People v Gordon, 50 AD3d 821, 822 (2d Dept 2008); Brown, 26 AD3d at 393; People v LaPorte, 306 AD2d 93, 95 (1st Dept 2003).

[24] DeJesus, 137 AD2d at 762.

[25] People v Fielding, 158 NY 542, 547 (1899).

> We have repeatedly laid down the rule governing prosecuting officers in addressing the jury… . We have repeatedly admonished [prosecutors] at times with severity … not to depart from that rule, but our admonitions have not always been regarded, although they were followed by a reversal of the judgment involved, founded solely on the improper remarks of the prosecuting officer . . . . Why should court and counsel violate the law in order to enforce it? What a pernicious example is presented when such officers, intrusted [sic] with the most important duties, in attempting to punish the guilty, are themselves guilty of departing from the law.[26]

But those early rebukes from the courts seem to have had little impact on prosecutors' practices. Over the last few decades, New York courts have had to remind prosecutors over and over that "summation is not an unbridled debate in which the restraints imposed at trial are cast aside so that counsel may employ all the rhetorical devices at his command."[27] Countering the gamesmanship and instinct to win that overcome many prosecutors at trial, courts have reminded them that "our adversarial system of justice is not a game, it has rules, and it is unfortunate when a prosecutor . . . plays fast and loose with them."[28]

Summation misconduct continues—apparently unabated—to this day. During oral argument in 2018, Justice LaSalle of the Appellate Division sharply criticized the regularity of summation misconduct:

> At what point does the unprofessionalism stop? At what point do we stop trying to win trials by being glib and win them on the evidence?… [W]hy weren't these [summation] statements so prejudicial, so unprofessional, so glib, as to inflame the passions of the jury so they wouldn't even consider themselves of the evidence, and come back with a verdict simply based on those [] unprofessional statements?[29]

As the above statement of Justice LaSalle makes clear, prosecutors make improper arguments in summation because such arguments are effective at winning cases—they go beyond the evidence, to manipulate biases, prejudice, and passions. Discussing prosecutorial misconduct in opening statements—where attorneys are even more limited than in summation—Justice Alan D. Scheinkman of the Appellate Division remarked in oral argument, "It's obvious that the prosecutor who tried this case was saying things for the purpose of winning it."[30]

For this reason, summation misconduct is not trivial or a "mere technicality." Summation misconduct increases the likelihood of a guilty verdict—and of the prosecutor winning their case. However, the prosecutor's role at trial is not just to win the case: the law requires that prosecutors

---

[26] People v Wolf, 183 NY 464, 471-476 (1906) (emphasis added).
[27] Ashwal, 39 NY2d at 109.
[28] People v Payne, 187 AD2d 245, 247 (4th Dept 1993).
[29] Oral Argument at 0:46:55-0:48:05 in People v Velez, 164 AD3d 622 (2d Dept 2018), available at https://tinyurl.com/52jhn78a. (Justice LaSalle is now the Presiding Justice.) In Velez, the court ultimately found that the evidence of guilt was overwhelming so any impropriety did not affect the verdict. See 164 AD3d. at 622.
[30] Oral Argument at 0:27:45-0:28:13 in People v Cherry, 163 AD3d 706 (2d Dept 2018), available at https://tinyurl.com/4mc9hv26 or https://tinyurl.com/2wwtdwsm; see also Cherry, 163 AD3d at 707 ("We agree . . . that the prosecutor's comments in his opening statement about the grand jury's indictment were improper. The prosecutor's comments in his opening statement about the victim and his family, which could only have been intended to evoke the jury's sympathy, were also improper.").

"seek justice . . . not merely to convict."[31] In this role, the law requires of prosecutors "to see that the defendant is accorded procedural justice."[32] Winning a case through summation misconduct violates this fundamental obligation. The American Bar Association's own ethical standards insist that "prosecutorial conduct in argument is a matter of special concern because of the possibility that the jury will give special weight to the prosecutor's arguments, not only because of the prestige associated with the prosecutor's office, but also because of the fact-finding facilities presumably available to the office."[33]

Professor and former New York prosecutor Bennett Gershman highlights the broad shadow that summation misconduct continues to cast over the entire criminal justice system:

> The problem is not new . . . . [M]isconduct by prosecutors in oral argument has indeed become staple in American trials. Even worse, such misconduct shows no sign of abating or being checked by institutional or other sanctions … . Virtually every federal and state appellate court at one time or another has bemoaned the 'disturbing frequency' and 'unheeded condemnations' of flagrant and unethical prosecutorial behavior.[34]

Despite the courts' clear prohibition of summation misconduct, prosecutors often ignore the law in an attempt to win their cases.

C. The Grievance Committee, as the Only Body Entrusted with Checking Prosecutorial Misconduct, has an Important Duty to Hold Prosecutors Accountable.

The Grievance Committee is in a unique position to hold New York prosecutors accountable for misconduct. While other attorneys and law enforcement officers are liable to civil lawsuits when they neglect their duties, the absolute immunity doctrine shields prosecutors from civil accountability.[35] In 1976, the U.S. Supreme Court partly justified absolute immunity for prosecutors because it believed that prosecutorial misconduct would be regulated by the "checks" of "professional discipline" by state bar organizations.[36]

---

[31] ABA Criminal Justice Standards: Prosecution Function Standard 3-1.2(b) ("The primary duty of the prosecutor is to seek justice within the bounds of the law, not merely to convict.").

[32] Rules of Professional Conduct 22 NYCRR 1200.0, Rule 3.8(b) (McKinney Commentary).

[33] ABA Criminal Justice Standards: Prosecution and Defense Function Standard 3-5.8 (1993).

[34] Bennett L. Gershman, Prosecutorial Misconduct § 11:1 (2d ed Aug. 2018) (internal citations omitted); see also Daniel S. Medwed, Closing the Door on Misconduct: Rethinking the Ethical Standards that Govern Summations in Criminal Trials, 38 Hastings Const L Q.915 (2011).

[35] See, e.g., Imbler v Pachtman, 424 US 409, 427 (1976); Shmueli v City of New York, 424 F3d 231, 237 (2d Cir 2005) (noting that prosecutors have "absolute immunity" for the "conduct of a prosecution"); Dann v Auburn Police Dept, 138 AD3d 1468, 1469 (4th Dept 2016) ("The law provides absolute immunity for conduct of prosecutors that was intimately associated with the judicial phase of the criminal process." (internal quotation marks omitted)); see also Ryan v. State, 56 NY2d 561, 562 (1982) (holding that "the doctrine of prosecutorial immunity" precludes "recovery against the State" for "acts of prosecutorial misconduct").

[36] Imbler, 424 US at 429; see also Matter of Malone, 105 AD2d 455, 459 (3d Dept 1984) (rejecting public official's claim to prosecutorial immunity in a professional ethics proceeding).

Unfortunately, the U.S. Supreme Court's assumption—that professional disciplinary actions would "provide an antidote to prosecutorial misconduct"—has not been borne out.[37] A 2013 report from the Center for Prosecutor Integrity identified 3,625 cases of prosecutorial misconduct between 1963 and 2013. Of those, only 63 prosecutors—less than 2 percent—were ever publicly disciplined.[38]

In their 2016 article, "Prosecutorial Accountability 2.0," ethics experts Professors Ellen Yaroshefsky and Bruce Green pointed out that prosecutors "were rarely disciplined for misconduct, and if so, not very seriously."[39] Indeed, "neither judges nor defense lawyers ordinarily alerted disciplinary agencies when prosecutors acted wrongly . . . . [D]isciplinary agencies and the courts overseeing them largely gave prosecutors a pass, perhaps hoping that prosecutors' offices would clean up their own messes."[40] "It's an insidious system," said Marvin Schechter, then-chairman of the criminal justice section of the New York State Bar Association, to ProPublica.[41] "Prosecutors engage in misconduct because they know they can get away with it."[42]

In 2018, the Appellate Division suspended New York prosecutor Mary Rain's law license for two years for a variety of misconduct, including summation misconduct.[43] In December 2020, the Appellate Division imposed the same penalty for the egregious misconduct of ex-prosecutor Glenn Kurtzrock.[44] But even a short suspension like that received by Rain and Kurtzrock[45]—indeed, public discipline of any kind—remains rare.

Prosecutors, the public officials tasked with holding the public accountable, are not being held accountable for their own misconduct. Absent strong, public discipline, misconduct like that of Palkhiwala will continue unabated and undeterred.

---

[37] See Karen McDonald Henning, The Failed Legacy of Absolute Immunity Under Imbler: Providing A Compromise Approach to Claims of Prosecutorial Misconduct, 48 Gonz L Rev 219, 242–243 (2012).

[38] Center for Prosecutor Integrity, An Epidemic of Prosecutor Misconduct at 8 (Dec. 2013) https://tinyurl.com/rpxyadhb; see also Project On Government Oversight, Hundreds of Justice Department Attorneys Violated Professional Rules, Laws, or Ethical Standards (Mar. 2014), https://tinyurl.com/vjkfr2eh; Charles E. MacLean & Stephen Wilks, Keeping Arrows in the Quiver: Mapping the Contours of Prosecutorial Discretion, 52 Washburn L J 59, 81 (2012) (citing "the small number of sanctions against prosecutors, relative to lawyers as a whole"); Fred C. Zacharias, The Professional Discipline of Prosecutors, 79 NC L Rev 721, 725 (2001) (describing the "rarity of discipline" of prosecutors).

[39] Bruce Green & Ellen Yaroshefsky, Prosecutorial Accountability 2.0, 92 Notre Dame L Rev 51, 65 (2017).

[40] Id. at 65 (citation omitted); see also Richard A. Rosen, Disciplinary Sanctions Against Prosecutors for Brady Violations: A Paper Tiger, 65 NC L Rev 693, 697 (1987).

[41] Sapien & Hernandez.

[42] Id.

[43] Rain, 162 AD3d at 1462.

[44] In the Matter of Glenn Kurtzrock, 192 AD3d 197 (2d Dept 2020).

[45] In the context of the apparently rampant and egregious misconduct by Rain and Kurtzrock, the court's sanction was surprisingly light. See, e.g., Bennett L. Gershman, The Most Dangerous Prosecutor In New York State, HuffPost (Sept. 20, 2017), https://tinyurl.com/yhvmd43k; Bennett L. Gershman, A Most Dangerous Prosecutor: A Sequel, HuffPost (Oct. 1, 2016), https://tinyurl.com/fp9yfs8x; Nina Morrison, What Happens When Prosecutors Break the Law?, NY Times (June 18, 2018), https://tinyurl.com/52ar9tjx.

2. The Appellate Division Found That Palkhiwala Committed Summation Misconduct.

Palkhiwala prosecuted Tyrone Anderson for burglary and related charges in Kings County, and a jury convicted after a trial in 2011.[46] On appeal, the Appellate Division reversed the conviction, finding that the hearing court erred in denying suppression.[47] The Appellate Division noted that under the circumstances—presumably, the reversal on suppression grounds—it need not determine whether Palkhiwala's misconduct deprived Anderson of his right to a fair trial.[48] Nevertheless, the Appellate Division "deem[ed] it appropriate to note [its] disapproval" of Palkhiwala's conduct, and discussed in broad strokes his improper remarks.

A. The Appellate Division Found that Palkhiwala Made Persistent and Purposeful Inflammatory Remarks.

"[I]t was improper," the Appellate Division found, for Palkhiwala to make "purposefully inflammatory remarks designed to appeal to the jury's sympathy."[49] Moreover, Palkhiwala "persist[ed]" in making these improper remarks "in disregard of the Supreme Court's repeated admonitions."[50]

While the court did not expand on this misconduct, the summation transcript reveals the likely referenced exchanges:

> [Palkhiwala:] . . . It isn't just a case about some jewelry and some video games. It also offers a human toll a crime like this case have.
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection.
>
> [The court:] Again, as I instructed you, you're not to decide this case based upon sympathy for either side or any witness. All right? This is just argument. But I remind you to keep that in mind. Okay. Go ahead.
>
> [Palkhiwala:] Thank you. Because when you're a victim of burglary, you lose something more valuable.
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection.
>
> [The court:] Come over here for a second.

---

[46] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 713. The decision does not identify Palkhiwala as the trial prosecutor. However, the summation transcript does identify him by name. See Summation Transcript at 420 in People v Anderson, Sup Ct, Kings County, Apr 5, 2011, indictment No. 7216/09 (hereafter "Summation Transcript").

[47] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 713.

[48] Id. at 716.

[49] Id.

[50] Id.

> [Palkhiwala:] You lose more than any property you might have had.
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection.
>
> [The court:] Okay. Can you just come over here for a second?[51]

With these remarks, Palkhiwala appears to have "purposefully" appealed to the jury's sympathy for the complainant.[52] As noted above, courts have prohibited prosecutors from engaging in this type of argumentation,[53] which shifts the jurors' focus from the facts—and whether a crime had actually occurred—to how they feel about the complainant or the defendant.

After an unrecorded bench conference, Palkhiwala resumed his closing. However, within 5 sentences, he began to make inflammatory remarks yet again:

> [Palkhiwala:] … I suggest to you that she was visibly upset, angry, frustrated, even two years later, because when you're looking real close in a case like this, is your piece [sic] of mind . . .
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection. Inflammatory again.
>
> [The court:] Okay. Why don't you move on and make your next point?
>
> [Palkhiwala:] The point is you can see what her reaction was to what happened. Okay? It had an effect. And whatever effect it had, it's still lingering two years later.
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection. He can't stop. It's inflammatory.
>
> [The court:] I would move on now counsel. Move on. Next point.[54]

Palkhiwala again resumed his closing, but within moments returned to his previous, improper theme—leading the court to implore of him to stop:

> [Palkhiwala:] . . . Because what [Anderson] took wasn't enough. He wanted more. It was a cold and nasty act. And with each piece of clothing she had to pick up and put away, I suggest to you that it was a reminder of the terrible thing that happened in her apartment.

---

[51] Summation Transcript at 486:18-487:11.

[52] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 716.

[53] See, e.g., People v Casiano, 148 AD3d 1044, 1045 (2d Dept 2017) (improper to "attempt to appeal to the sympathy of the jury" for complainant); People v Ni, 293 AD2d 552, 552 (2d Dept 2002) (improper remarks in opening statement); People v Goldstein, 196 Misc 2d 741, 744-45 (App. Term, 2d Dept 2003) (improper to argue that "nothing that you can do that is ever going to give back to [complainant] what she lost").

[54] Summation Transcript at 487:23-488:13.

> [The court:] Mr. Palkhiwala, I think this is now going beyond what we said at the bench, sir. Please, sir, don't make that argument again.[55]

Some moments later, Palkhiwala appears to have shifted the focus of his theme to evoke emotions of fears from the jurors:

> [Palkhiwala:] … [T]his didn't happen during the day. This happened at 8:30 at night, ladies and gentlemen. And at 8:30 p.m., it's not unreasonable to assume that many of us work during the day, some could be home at night.
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objection . . . Inflammatory.[56]

The judge did not sustain the objection,[57] leading Palkhiwala to pursue what appears to be an argument tailored to evoke both sympathy and anger:

> [Palkhiwala:] … [Anderson] came in through the bathroom window. And even to come at this point of your home, the bathroom is arguably the place where you require the most privacy. Where you do your personal things –
>
> [Defense counsel:] Objectionable. It is calculated to enflame [sic] the jury by talking about how awful it is to be burglarized.[58]

At which point, the judge sustained the objection.[59] As the transcript makes clear, Palkhiwala was indeed persistent in his improper remarks, even in the face of repeated judicial admonishments.

B. The Appellate Division Found Other Comments Improper.

The Appellate Division deemed several additional remarks by Palkhiwala to have been improper.[60] First, Palkhiwala denigrated the defense in several of his remarks, even though the law is clear that a prosecutor may not denigrate the defense, defense counsel or the defendant.[61] The Appellate Division quoted one such remark specifically: a characterization of the defense as "absolutely beyond absurd."[62]

---

[55] Id. at 489:12-19.

[56] Id. at 489:21-490:2.

[57] Id. at 490:3.

[58] Id. at 490:10-16.

[59] Id. at 490:21.

[60] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 716.

[61] See, e.g., Damon, 24 NY2d at 260; Lombardi, 20 NY2d at 272; Gordon, 50 AD3d at 822 ; Brown, 26 AD3d at 393; LaPorte, 306 AD2d at 95.

[62] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 716; see also Summation Transcript at 504:2-3 ("It's absolutely beyond absurd. Beyond absurd.").

Second, Palkhiwala referenced Anderson's pre-arrest silence,[63] even though New York state law does not permit prosecutors to use a defendant's pretrial silence in their direct case, whether or not the silence occurred pre- or post-arrest.[64] Specifically, it appears that Palkhiwala made the following statement: "What did the defendant do while that's happening? No mention of the other person. No attempt to help the police."[65] The Appellate Division found that Palkhiwala's pre-arrest silence remarks were "improper."[66]

3. The Grievance Committee Must Seek Discipline for the Serious Professional Misconduct That Occurred Here.

As noted by one Grievance Committee, "[t]he legal profession expects all lawyers to conduct themselves in an honest and ethical manner in accordance with the Rules of Professional Conduct."[67] Professional misconduct occurs with a "violation of any of the Rules of Professional Conduct."[68] Grievance Committees are "committed to . . . recommending discipline for lawyers who do not meet the high ethical standards of the profession."[69]

Our laws and profession hold prosecutors to an even higher standard. Prosecutors wield immense power—the power to punish on behalf of the state. Such immense power, when left unchecked, can cause indelible harm. The United States Supreme Court has stated unequivocally that prosecutors "have a special duty to seek justice, not merely to convict."[70]

In handing ex-prosecutor Glenn Kurtzrock a two-year suspension for his past prosecutorial misconduct, the Appellate Division reminded us, "Prosecutors, in their role as advocates and public officers, are charged with seeing that justice is done—to act impartially, to have fair dealing with the accused, to be candid with the courts, and to safeguard the rights of all."[71]

Therefore, a prosecutor is not merely an advocate for a victim, a complainant, or society as a whole. Instead, a prosecutor is a "minister of justice," responsible to guarantee "procedural justice and that guilt is decided upon the basis of sufficient evidence."[72] Similarly, the professional guidelines promulgated by the American Bar Association make clear that a prosecutor's job goes

---

[63] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 716.

[64] See People v Conyers, 49 NY2d 174, 177 (1980); People v Pavone, 26 NY3d 629, 638-39 (2015). This rule applies to both post-arrest and pre-arrest silence. People v DeGeorge, 73 NY2d 614, 619 (1989). In most cases, pre-arrest silence cannot be used even for impeachment because of the silence's ambiguity and limited probative value. Id. at 618-19.

[65] Summation Transcript at 504:4-6.

[66] Anderson, 142 AD3d at 716.

[67] Attorney Grievance Committee of the First Judicial Department, How to File a Complaint, https://tinyurl.com/39axvffr.

[68] Rules for Attorney Disciplinary Matters (22 NYCRR) § 1240.2(a).

[69] How to File a Complaint.

[70] Connick v Thompson, 563 US 51, 65-66 (2011) (quotation marks omitted).

[71] Kurtzrock, 192 AD3d 197, 219.

[72] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 3.8(b) Comment [1].

well beyond achieving the maximum number of convictions.[73] The New York professional rules reflect this higher standard: prosecutors are the only category of attorneys with their own ethical rule.[74] Indeed, as agents of the state and ministers of justice, prosecutors play a highly public role. Failing to acknowledge their misconduct, or hold them accountable for it, tarnishes the legitimacy of the criminal system, the bar as a whole, and the rule of law itself.

A. Palkhiwala's Misconduct Violated Rules of the New York Rules of Professional Conduct.

The standard of proof in attorney disciplinary proceedings is a fair preponderance of the evidence—not a higher standard, such as clear and convincing or beyond a reasonable doubt.[75] As the Court of Appeals explained, "the privilege to practice law is not a personal or liberty interest, but is more nearly to be classified as a property interest, as to which the higher standard of proof has not been required."[76]

Palkhiwala violated the professional rules by prejudicing the administration of justice and conducting himself in a manner not befitting of a lawyer. Palkhiwala's summation misconduct was egregious, violating the most basic principles of closing argument. Indeed, the Appellate Division delineated the improprieties even though it was reversing on other grounds.

Under Rules 8.4(d) and 8.4(h), a lawyer shall not engage in conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice or engage in any other conduct that adversely reflects on the lawyer's fitness as a lawyer.[77] The Court of Appeals has stated that a prosecutor's improper summation remarks amount to prosecutorial misconduct.[78] A prosecutor's summation misconduct violates Rules 8.4(d) and 8.4(h) by prejudicing the administration of justice and reflecting adversely on the prosecutor's fitness as a lawyer.[79]

B. For Palkhiwala's Misconduct, the Committee Should Seek Public Discipline.

New York does not have a statute of limitation barring disciplinary action against an attorney—and rightfully so. As explained by the American Bar Association, "Statutes of limitation are wholly inappropriate in lawyer disciplinary proceedings. Conduct of a lawyer, no matter when it has occurred, is always relevant to the question of fitness to practice."[80] The ABA's Model Rule 32

---

[73] ABA Criminal Justice Standards: Prosecution Function Standard 3-1.2 ("The primary duty of the prosecutor is to seek justice within the bounds of the law, not merely to convict.").

[74] See Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 3.8(b).

[75] See, e.g., Matter of Capoccia, 59 NY2d 549, 551 (1983).

[76] Matter of Seiffert, 65 NY2d 278, 280 (1985) (quotation marks omitted); see also Matter of Scudieri, 174 AD3d 168, 173 (2019).

[77] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 8.4.

[78] Wright, 25 NY3d at 780.

[79] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 8.4(d), (h); Rain, 162 AD3d at 1459.

[80] ABA Model Rules for Lawyer Disciplinary Enforcement rule 32 (Commentary 2020).

for Lawyer Disciplinary Enforcement makes lawyer discipline "exempt from all statutes of limitations."[81]

In considering discipline, the Appellate Division has considered the role of prosecutor as a "substantial factor in aggravation."[82] Simply being a prosecutor supports aggravated discipline because the law tasks prosecutors "with seeing that justice is done—to act impartially, to have fair dealing with the accused, to be candid with the courts, and to safeguard the rights of all."[83] Similarly, extensive prosecutorial experience weighs towards a more serious sanction.[84]

Palkhiwala committed extensive summation misconduct. But he was no novice: he had been practicing law since at least 2003, and was handling serious felony cases at the time of Anderson's trial (evident by the charges against Anderson). Palkhiwala is now in private practice and advertises his prosecutorial experience to potential clients online: "As a former prosecutor and Deputy Bureau Chief for the Kings County District Attorney's Office, Mike successfully handled and supervised thousands of prosecutions and earned convictions in numerous violent felony trials."[85] Despite the judicial finding of misconduct in Anderson, as of the writing of this grievance, the New York Attorney Detail Report lists "Disciplinary History: No record of public discipline" for Palkhiwala.[86]

The Grievance Committee must hold Palkhiwala accountable by imposing serious sanctions, including the possibility of recommending his suspension.

Conclusion

Palkhiwala committed serious summation misconduct. In doing so, he violated the legal professional rules. To these writers' knowledge, Palkhiwala remains unsanctioned publicly or privately for his serious misconduct. Suspension may be the most appropriate sanction for this serious misconduct.

As "officers of the court, all attorneys are obligated to maintain the highest ethical standards."[87] To that end, "the grievance process exists to protect the public . . . . By bringing a complaint to a committee's attention, the public helps the legal profession achieve its goal."[88] The judicial finding identified in this grievance provides far more evidence than necessary to meet the "fair preponderance of the evidence" standard to discipline the prosecutor at issue, but we call upon the Grievance Committee to go further and investigate far beyond the court finding identified in this grievance. For the legitimacy of and public trust in the criminal system, and the bar, the

[81] Id.

[82] Kurtzrock, 192 AD3d at 219; see also Rain, 162 AD3d at 1462 ("[P]rosecutors carry an obligation to hold themselves to the highest standards based upon their role in our system of justice.").

[83] Kurtzrock, 192 AD3d at 219.

[84] Id.

[85] Velella & Basso, Michael P. Palkhiwala, Of Counsel, https://tinyurl.com/5rbe7bh7.

[86] See New York Unified Court System, Attorney Online Services – Search, https://tinyurl.com/347srhpu [search by attorney Michael Palkhiwala, click on Name hyperlink].

[87] NY St Bar Assn Comm on Prof Discipline, Guide to Attorney Discipline, https://tinyurl.com/47scv4pb.

[88] Id.

investigation should be public at every stage possible.

Below are some essential aspects of such an investigation:

1. The Committee should begin by investigating the many other cases prosecuted by Palkhiwala. As the comment to Rule 8.3 of the New York Rules of Professional Conduct reminds us, "An apparently isolated violation may indicate a pattern of misconduct that only a disciplinary investigation can uncover."[89] Using its power to investigate, including to issue subpoenas and interview witnesses, the Committee can and should obtain a list of all cases that this prosecutor worked on and contact the attorneys, witnesses, and accused persons (while protecting the accused's rights to privacy and counsel) in those cases. The Committee should also identify all of Palkhiwala's other cases where the issue of misconduct was raised in the courts before trial, at trial, or on appeal, or was the subject of other ethical grievances, mentioned in the media, or identified in any other source.

   This type of comprehensive investigation may seem onerous, but the recent investigation into former Suffolk County Assistant District Attorney Glenn Kurtzrock demonstrates both the viability and overwhelming necessity of a systematic investigation. In a 2017 murder trial, People v. Booker, Kurtzrock committed a wide range of egregious discovery violations, leading to his resignation and the Appellate Division's December 2020 ruling suspending his law license for two years.[90] In imposing this sanction, the Appellate Division highlighted as a mitigating factor that "there was no showing that [Kurtzrock] engaged in any similar conduct in any other cases."[91]

   But at the time of the December 2020 Appellate Division ruling, there was in fact already significant evidence of similar misconduct by Kurtzrock in other cases, which would have been easily identified if a systematic investigation had been undertaken.[92] To start, after Kurtzrock's Brady violation was revealed during the 2017 Booker trial, defense counsel for a different murder case in which Kurtzrock had obtained a conviction, People v. Lawrence, then pending on appeal, requested a reexamination of the discovery in that case. The District Attorney's Office agreed, and the investigation revealed that Kurtzrock had failed to disclose more than 40 items of Brady and/or Rosario evidence in Lawrence as well, including a payment to a witness and exculpatory witness statements. Consequently, the judge dismissed the indictment in 2018, and Shawn Lawrence, who had served six years of incarceration of his 75-years-

[89] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 8.3 Comment [1].

[90] Kurtzrock, 192 AD3d 197.

[91] Id. at 220.

[92] Letter to Second Department (unfiled), Nina Morrison of the Innocence Project and Paul Shechtman of Bracewell LLP, January 20, 2021; see also Morrison, What Happens When Prosecutors Break the Law?, NY Times, https://tinyurl.com/52ar9tjx.

to-life sentence, was released.[93] The judge concluded that the suppression constituted "more than exceptionally serious misconduct."[94]

A systematic investigation of Kurtzrock ensued that uncovered even more suppressed evidence. Following the Appellate Division's December 2020 ruling, the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office ("SCDAO") worked with the New York Law School Post-Conviction Innocence Clinic to conduct a comprehensive review of Kurtzrock's trial cases and other cases where Kurtzrock's actions raised discovery issues.[95] The investigation and resulting public report identified that numerous prosecutions by Kurtzrock were infected by "practices similar to those criticized by the Appellate Division in the [2017] Booker case,"[96] which the report characterized as a "potential systemic issue."[97]

As a result of the investigation, the SCDAO provided new evidence to defendants in 100 percent of Kurtzrock's homicide cases and 76 percent of all trial cases reviewed. [98] These disclosures have already spurred applications to review convictions.[99] The SCDAO also sent its report to the Appellate Division and the Grievance Committee to determine if any additional action is appropriate,[100] an important step given that, in explaining the lenient two-year suspension for Kurtzrock's misconduct in Booker, the Appellate Division cited the ostensible lack of evidence of misconduct by him in other cases.

The Kurtzrock investigation thus demonstrates the sound logic behind the comment to Rule 8.3 that "[a]n apparently isolated violation may indicate a pattern of misconduct that only a disciplinary investigation can uncover"[101] and the need for the Grievance Committee to systematically investigate this prosecutor's work.

2. The Committee should promptly investigate whether any supervising attorney at the Kings County District Attorney's Office is also culpable for the ethics violation cited in this grievance under Rule 5.1(d) of the New York Rules of Professional Conduct, which provides direct culpability for supervising attorneys under various [93] Morrison, What Happens When Prosecutors Break the Law?, NY Times, https://tinyurl.com/52ar9tjx.

[94] County of Suffolk Office of District Attorney, Review of the Disclosure Practices of Assistant District Attorney Glenn Kurtzrock, https://tinyurl.com/2a7ba9cd (hereafter "Kurtzrock report") at 11 (discussing case of People v. Shawn Lawrence) (internal quotation marks omitted).

[95] The SCDAO "attempted to identify and examine for Brady/Giglio and Rosario compliance all cases Kurtzrock tried while serving as an ADA with the SCDAO, both as a homicide prosecutor and while serving in a bureau that prosecutes non-fatal violent crimes and other felony offenses. The CIB also examined additional cases… that Kurtzrock did not try himself but in which Kurtzrock's actions prior to trial were identified as raising Brady/Giglio and/or Rosario compliance concerns." Id. at 4.

[96] Id. at 5.

[97] Id. at 4.

[98] Id. at 6.

[99] Id.

[100] Id. at 7.

[101] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 8.3 Comment [1].

circumstances, including when a supervisor knowingly ratifies improper conduct or knows of the conduct when it could be prevented but fails to take remedial action.[102]

3. The Grievance Committee should investigate whether the Kings County District Attorney's Office and its managing attorneys complied with its duties under Rule 5.1 of the New York Rules of Professional Conduct, requiring that law firms as a whole, and managing attorneys in particular, make efforts to ensure that all lawyers in the firm conform to the New York Rules of Professional Conduct.[103]

4. The Committee should identify any prosecutors trained and/or supervised by Palkhiwala and determine whether instances of prosecutorial misconduct can also be found in their work as prosecutors.

We recognize that bar discipline provides a uniquely individual remedy that will not, on its own, remedy the systemic problems identified above in this letter. For this reason, we also call for the implementation of an independent public commission empowered to systematically investigate all cases identified in #1-4 above and advise the court if this investigation casts doubt on the integrity of any convictions. To be clear, we do not mean a closed-door, cloaked process inside a District Attorney's Office, but rather a commission that operates transparently and includes members of the public, including members of impacted communities of color, public defenders and other criminal defense attorneys, civil rights attorneys, and people who have been incarcerated and their loved ones.

Thank you for your careful consideration of this matter.

---

[102] Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 5.1 (d) reads: A lawyer shall be responsible for a violation of these Rules by another lawyer if:

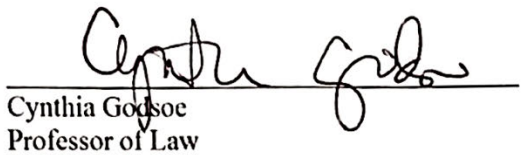
(1) the lawyer orders or directs the specific conduct or, with knowledge of the specific conduct, ratifies it; or

(2) the lawyer is a partner in a law firm or is a lawyer who individually or together with other lawyers possesses comparable managerial responsibility in a law firm in which the other lawyer practices or is a lawyer who has supervisory authority over the other lawyer; and

(i) knows of such conduct at a time when it could be prevented or its consequences avoided or mitigated but fails to take reasonable remedial action; or

(ii) in the exercise of reasonable management or supervisory authority should have known of the conduct so that reasonable remedial action could have been taken at a time when the consequences of the conduct could have been avoided or mitigated.

[103] District Attorney offices qualify as "law firms" under Rules of Professional Conduct (22 NYCRR 1200.0) rule 1.0 (h). "'Firm' or 'law firm' includes, but is not limited to, a lawyer or lawyers in a law partnership, professional corporation, sole proprietorship or other association authorized to practice law; or lawyers employed in a qualified legal assistance organization, a government law office, or the legal department of a corporation or other organization."



Cynthia Godsoe
Professor of Law
Brooklyn Law School

Nicole Smith Futrell
Associate Professor of Law
CUNY School of Law

Steven Zeidman
Professor of Law
CUNY School of Law

Daniel S. Medwed
University Distinguished Professor of Law and Criminal Justice
Northeastern University

Abbe Smith
Scott K. Ginsburg Professor of Law
Director, Criminal Defense & Prisoner Advocacy Clin
Co-Director, E. Barrett Prettyman Fellowship Program
Georgetown University Law Center

Justin Murray
Associate Professor of Law
New York Law School